CREATING LASTING PESACH MEMORIES

~ SHARING THE SEDER ~

Passover happens to be my favorite Jewish holiday. It's my favorite because I have so many memories of observing it with my family over the years.

The one Passover story I will never forget happened when I was no more than seven or eight years old. I was in Palm Springs, California with extended family at my grandmother's home. After our seder concluded, I went for a walk outside in the warm desert weather with my father and uncle. As we walked around the neighborhood I recall noticing how many homes were celebrating Pesach — you could smell the holiday as you walked down the street. As we approached one house, I saw that their front door was open. They had just opened it to welcome Elijah into their home to sip from his wine glass. Well, something struck me and I ran into the house, took a sip of the wine and said, "Elijah's here!" and then bolted back to the street to hide behind my dad. To this day I have no idea what came over me, but it makes me laugh each time I remember it. The family whose house I ran into had a good laugh about it, too.

While I'm not so sure I want to encourage my children to run into random people's homes, I do know that I look forward to creating lasting memories of celebrating our holiday of freedom with my family, at home (my house or yours).

This year I want to make sure everyone has a home to go to for first or second night seder. Next year, I look forward to observing Pesach with the whole CBI community, as I know the community seder has been a hit in the past and an event to look forward to.

Please fill out the form on page 9 and return to the synagogue office (by mail, in person or by emailing to bishul@aol.com) so we can make the best possible matches. I hope you all have a memorable, spiritual, fulfilling and delicious Passover this year.

Chag Sameach!

~ Rabbi Joshua Samuels

MESSAGE FROM THE RABBI

The Season of Children

The season of children has officially arrived! A little over a week ago we made noise, laughed and had fun during Purim and Erev Pesach is later this month. Purim—the Jewish Mardi Gras—is the festival where everything is topsy-turvy and, in recent years, has arguably become the Jewish holiday most associated with children in Reform communities. We have Purim carnivals, costumes, noisy gragers, and my favorite Jewish sweet treat: apricot hamantaschen. Passover, too, is centered on children. A seder is not a seder without the Four Children, the Four Questions, and the search for the afikomen. Passover is linked with children primarily because of the importance it places on conveying the story and meaning of Passover to the youngest generations. Many seders will not even begin until a child asks a question. Thus, teaching our children is paramount to Passover.

But how do we teach our children? You may recall countless stories in the news about the "Tiger Mother." Amy "Tiger Mother" Chua is a Yale Law professor and renowned author whose second book, "Battle Hymn of the Tiger Mother" (Penguin Press, 2011) has raised many eyebrows. In this shocking memoir Chua describes the benefits of her authoritarian—and some might say oppressive—parenting style. For instance, Chua and her husband (a Jewish Yale Law professor) forbid their two daughters to have sleepovers, watch television, have dates with friends, play video games or receive anything below an A on homework assignments. Chua even describes rejecting a homemade birthday card her 4-year-old daughter gave her one year because it wasn't adequate. This all might seem ridiculous; however, according to the "Tiger Mother," this is traditional Chinese parenting and it works.

Jewish clinical psychologist, Wendy Mogel, might just be the antithesis to Chua. Mogel, also an accomplished author, has written multiple books on parenting: "The Blessings of a B Minus: Using Jewish Teachings to Raise Resilient Teenagers" (Scribner, 2010); and, "The Blessing of a Skinned Knee: Using Jewish Teachings to Raise Self-Reliant Children" (Scribner, 2008). Mogel thinks parents should set standards for their children but then back off, allowing the children to experience life's ups and downs. She teaches, "You have to recognize that they (children) can't be good problem solvers unless they have problems to solve. They have to make dumb mistakes to get

A Message from the President

Now that we have passed Purim, and with Pesach just around the corner, the warmer weather can't be that far away. And with the warmer weather coming, the speed with which our new building will progress will increase.

The outer wall framing will be under way as you read this, and I have been told that by the time my term as president comes to an end there will be a roof over the building. I'm not sure what makes me more excited - a new roof or a new president. It's a good thing I don't need to choose, so...I'll take one of each.

The annual Board retreat is coming up in April. The improvement in the Board's functioning seems evident after last year's retreat, and I'm sure we'll see even more upgrades down the road. Work goes on behind the scenes, creating a new slate of officers and board members so that when the Annual Meeting comes around in May we will be ready. So our community is being built both in a physical and in an organizational manner, readying ourselves for the moment when we make "THE BIG MOVE".

Tetzlekhu,

smart. You (parents) need to be alert, but not alarmed." Mogel and Chua's methods are about as opposite as they can get, yet they do share the belief that "helicopter parenting"—hovering over your child's every move—is perhaps more harmful than helpful.

And what does the Torah teach us on this subject? Very little. The fifth commandment, however, instructs us to honor our parents. There is no commandment telling us to honor our children and no mitzvah illustrating how to raise our children. We are commanded to "teach these words to our children" and to recount our Passover narrative every year, but that's about it. In Proverbs 22:6, we get a little more clarity about parenting styles: "Educate a child according to his/her own path." Therefore, a parent must have patience and unconditional love. A little more Mogel than Tiger mom.

After I became a parent, a friend gave me and Nicole a book called, "The Parent's Tao Te Ching" (Da Capo, 1999). Based on the legendary Chinese sage, Lao Tzu's "Tao Te Ching," which is a masterful work venerated for its philosophical and practical wisdom, this contemporary version delicately teaches parents how to raise children according to Taoist philosophy, or "The Way." Here's an excerpt from the book:

There are only three qualities you must teach your children: Compassion, patience, and simplicity. Some would say this is absurd. They would teach instead, ambition, drive, and consumption, and say it is the way of success.

But if they learn patience, they see the world as it truly is. If they learn simplicity, they see themselves as they truly are. And if they learn compassion, they heal themselves and the world.

This ancient Chinese teaching is actually very Jewish—it resembles the lessons our great Mussar rabbis taught many years ago. (If you want to learn more about Mussar practice and philosophy, register for my 6-session class now.)

As we find ourselves in the middle of the season of children—regardless of which method you prefer, and whether or not you have children of your own—let's think about how we teach those we care about and love. If we demand excellence, are we also encouraging patience and simplicity? Are we patient when we teach? And if we expect specific results, are we also teaching according to that person's own unique path? We all have many lessons and skills to pass on to others, at every stage in our lives. May those who learn from us grow in multiple ways and may we, more often than not, become the students in these sacred relationships.

Rabbi Joshua Samuels

MISSION STATEMENT: Congregation Beth Israel is a diverse and inclusive synagogue affiliated with the Union for Reform Judaism and committed to a tradition that honors both Jewish continuity and innovation. We warmly welcome people into our vibrant community, dedicated to the study of Torah and creative Jewish learning, joyous and meaningful worship, and engaging in the sacred obligation of tikkun olam, repair of the world. As inheritors of a rich past and creators of a future full of possibility, we continually seek new opportunities to support each other in participating and growing Jewishly.

Membership Committee ~ Sara Geballe

Whew! All the Lifetouch photo sessions are finally done, and we are now awaiting our proof copy of the 2013 CBI Photo Directory. A total of 135 member families participated in the directory. Thank you to all those families for showing your solidarity and commitment to this important synagogue-wide project. Those who participated will be receiving a free copy of the photo directory later this spring. We'll let you know as soon as they are ready.

I want to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped us with the enormous task of producing the photo directory. First, let me acknowledge everyone on the Membership Committee: Michelle Beller-Siegfried, Anne Brown, Marla Finkelstein, Elinor Pravda, Rita Spitzer, Bonnie Stone, Ann Suloway, Becki Van Glubt, Joan Wayne, Amy Whiting, Sarah Witte and Shelley Wolfman. You all stepped up big time and helped out in ways too numerous to mention that best matched your skills. A heartfelt and very special thank you goes to Melissa Schapiro. Even though Melissa is not on the Committee, she created the directory's layout and design single-handedly. I don't know what we would have done without her. Thank you to Mary Somerville for preparing our roster in as many different ways as Lifetouch required. And special thanks to Rabbi Samuels for his two excellent "robo-calls" that I believe helped a lot in getting folks to sign up. I also want to thank the many additional folks who kindly served as hosts at our six days of photo sessions at the Gateway Centre: Linda Blackwell, Marta Brand, Harriet Fine, Elka Fink, Sylvia Fragner, Bettina Fisher, Linda Hirsh, Gloria Lebowitz, Marcia Lippman, Vicki Mayers, Debbie Raas, Belle Shalom, Judy Soicher and Miriam Zderic. And finally, a big shout-out to Jay Solomon for providing the Gateway Center — the perfect place to hold our photo shoots!

As of this writing we are preparing for our March 16th New Member Havdalah Social, at which we will be celebrating the 19 families who joined our congregation in 2012. They represent a total of 32 adults and 20 children. What an amazing year of growth!

And just one more thing...the 2013 CBI Professional Services Directory is now posted online on the "Members Only" section of the synagogue website*. More than 50 member-owned businesses and services are listed there. Let's all support our members! * www.bethisraelbellingham.org

BOOK GROUP

Our next meeting will be on Sunday, March 17 at 2:00 PM at the home of Linda Blackwell. We will be discussing The Bones and the Book by Jane Isenberg.

In 1890, Aliza Rudinsk, a young Orthodox Jewish immigrant from the Ukraine, came to Seattle via New York's Lower East Side expecting to build a good life for herself. In 1965, her bones turn up in Seattle's underground streets, along with a book written in Yiddish. Recently widowed Rachel Mazursky offers to translate the book. Aliza's poignant story compels Rachel to search for the identity of Aliza's murderer, unearthing disturbing secrets about her own past in so doing. The reader is carried back to a remote outpost of the Jewish diaspora where gold, good table manners, and assimilating often trump Torah, tribe, and tradition.

As always, if you haven't read the book, please come anyway and share in an interesting discussion and friendly gathering.

From the Bima . . .

Soon after the High Holy Days last year I reached out to Cantor Sharona Feller, inquiring about the possibility of her leading services with me this fall. Cantor Feller recently alerted me that she will be officiating at her synagogue in Arizona once again this year.

Like many of you, I am saddened that we will not have the privilege of singing with her beautiful and engaging voice during the High Holy Days. Daniel and Sharona will be in town for much of the spring and summer, and I welcome any opportunity to share the bima with the cantor.

But fear not — I have been in touch with the ACC (American Conference of Cantors) and we are well ahead of schedule for hiring a cantor this year. I am heading a small group whose mission is to select the best possible candidate — one who will serve our community's needs based on conversations and feedback I have received from many of you.

This High Holy Day season should be a memorable one. If all goes according to plan we will be ushering in the New Year in our new, yet unfinished building. This will certainly add to the meaning of kehillah kedusha, a holy community.

Thank you for your sustained support.

Rabbi Joshua Samuels

Social Action Committee

♦ Cats and Dogs

Thanks to all who donated towels, blankets and pet food for the Whatcom Humane Society shelter. The dogs and cats also thank you! Remember that you can volunteer to play with the animals at the shelter — call them at 733-2080.

♦ Chametz-B-Gone

Are you wondering what to do with your unopened chametz as you clean before Passover? Bring it to the synagogue before March 22nd and we will pick it up and deliver it to the Bellingham Food Bank. If you have other canned or packaged food to donate, feel free to bring it at the same time. Our collection bins are located downstairs outside the Social Hall.

♦ Children's Books

New and gently used children's books are given to children who visit the Interfaith Health Clinic. We are collecting children's books for March and April. This is a wonderful way to recycle those books our children have outgrown or to share a new book with kids when they visit the clinic. They get to be healthy and literate — what could be nicer? Our bins are waiting....

♦ Mitzvah Day

Mitzvah Day is June 2nd this year, and we would like every member to take part! Bring willing hands and minds and volunteer to improve the world. We are looking for project ideas, project leaders, and lots of willing volunteers. Be ready to sign up as more information comes your way in early May.

♦ Interfaith Coalition Annual Meeting

The Interfaith Coalition Auction is coming on Saturday, March 23rd (see article, below) The Coalition works to support healthcare and housing for all. Come to the auction and support this great organization. Beth Israel is one of 44 faith communities in the Coalition, and we hope to have a table or two this year. Tickets are $45/person for dinner and both a silent and live auction. Come and be part of the fun! Reserve a seat by March 11 — call Debbie Raas for tickets.

♦ Milk Money

May is the month we provide $750 for a month's supply of milk at the Bellingham Food Bank. Your donations are welcome. Please watch for more details in the weekly E-News and in the next Shofar.

♦ Social Action Survey

So far 41 people have answered our survey. The leading issue was healthcare, which includes mental and physical health. The runners-up were housing and hunger, and the environment wasn't far behind. Help us come up with ideas that we can put into action — let us know your suggestions by contacting Social Action chairs Linda Hirsh or Debbie Raas.

♦ Next Meeting

Our next meeting will be at 2:00 PM on Sunday, March 10th at the home of Linda Hirsh. We will be discussing the survey, Mitzvah Day, and other projects. Everyone who would like to be involved is invited to the meeting. Call or email Linda for directions.

Annual Hope Auction

Saturday, March 23, 2013 5:30 p.m.

At Interfaith's Annual Hope Auction you will enjoy an evening of fun and community spirit, and the proceeds will support housing for homeless families and healthcare for those in need. The auction is Interfaith's biggest fundraising event, and raises more than one-third of Interfaith's annual income. The evening begins at 5:30 p.m. at the Best Western Lakeway Inn in Bellingham. Tickets are on sale now for $45 each, which includes a sit-down dinner.

You also may support the event by contributing an item to be auctioned. If you can provide a service, getaway home, or other sought-after item, then you have something to offer that would raise money to assist local people in need. For more information, tickets, or to make a donation, please call Interfaith Coalition at 734-3983, or contact Debbie Raas, who represents CBI on the Coalition board.

Religious School News AND Notes ~ Miriam Schwartz

The Religious School community has been quite busy over the past two months. Many of the activities were for the benefit of parents, starting with a Community Meeting on January 16, where teachers gave presentations about the curriculum and parents had the opportunity to discuss the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats of the Religious School.

On January 26, students and parents took part in a wonderful Tu B'Shevat Shabbaton. Students created art projects and engaged in discussions about environmentalism and conservation, while parents listened to a fascinating talk by Aaron Sanger about his work with ForestEthics. All present took part in a Tu B'Shevat seder, complete with dates, kiwis, and pomegranate seeds, then shared a falafel lunch. Everyone left the Shabbaton with hearts full of gratitude for trees!

During Sunday School on February 10, parents were invited to participate in the second Adult Learning Session of the year, "The Linguistics of Hebrew." Dr. Amnon Bruck gave an interactive and thought-provoking talk about how different English and Hebrew are from each other today, but how they evolved from the same root language thousands of years ago.

And, last but not least, the entire Religious School community celebrated Purim on February 24. Many students took part in a festive Megillah reading at Beth Israel in the morning, and then the party moved to Bloedel Donovan. Highlights of this year's Purim Carnival included stilt walkers, a bewigged clarinetist (was that really What the Chelm?), excited children BEGGING for more tickets, hamantashen to die for, and eerily accurate fortune telling. It truly does take a village — or at least a congregation full of generous and energetic folks — to throw a Purim Carnival!

The next Religious School Committee meeting will be held on March 3 at 10:15 AM. All parents are welcome and encouraged to attend. Immediately following will be the first meeting of the New Synagogue Outdoor Space Task Force. Again, all interested parties are encouraged to attend.

- ☆ Religious School Committee Meeting - Sunday, April 14 during RS hours
- ☆ CBI Community Hike - Sunday, April 21, 9 AM (replaces Sunday School)
- ☆ Lag B'Omer Celebration - Sunday, April 28 at 11:00 AM during RS

Program Committee ~ Sabrina Freeman

Jewish/Israeli Film Series

The Program Committee is sponsoring a Jewish/Israeli film series that will take place every other month. The fourth offering of the series will take place in the Social Hall on Saturday, April 20, beginning with Havdallah at 7:15 PM. The film will be screened at 7:30 PM.

April's film, Infiltration, is an adaptation of one of Israeli literature's most celebrated novels. Set in 1956, it follows a boot camp of aspiring Israeli soldiers comprised of conscripts from Ashkenazi Jews, new immigrants from North Africa and Europe, Holocaust survivors, and both secular and religious individuals. Set over ten years before the Israeli army's epochal victory in the 1967 war, Infiltration offers a series of vignettes designed to show an array of Israeli attitudes and mores and ultimately the challenges of creating a homogenous society from so many disparate pieces. Everything from Stanley Kubrick's Full Metal Jacket to Oliver Stone's Platoon gets referenced in this entertaining, thought-provoking tale, which won Best Photography at the 2012 Israeli Academy Awards. In Hebrew with English subtitles. There will be discussion of the film afterward for those interested in staying.

This event is free of charge, however a small donation of $5 to cover the cost of refreshments will be appreciated.

In the Community —

Theater: "The Legacy"

Life is what happens when you're making other plans. Set in the 1960's, this powerful drama is the story of the Estantyskys — the only Jewish family in an isolated Texas town — during an intense and challenging chapter in their lives. It explores questions dealing with "...life and death, God and man, Jew and Gentile, human suffering and the eternal 'Why?'" Directed by Marla Bronstein, The Legacy will run from February 28 thru March 17 at the Claire vg Theatre in Lynden.

Marla writes that, for her, "the most important message of [the play] is the need for tradition and community in one's life. Tradition is that thread that you get from your parents and grandparents and give to your children...The support of community will help get you through all of the challenges life can throw."

Tickets are available online at www.clairevgtheatre.com or by calling 354-4425 between 1:00 and 3:00 PM.

Film: Seattle Jewish Film Festival

From March 2 through March 10, the 18th Annual Seattle Jewish Film Festival will be presenting over 20 Jewish/Israeli themed films of all types in six different Seattle venues. For more details, go to <http://www.seattlejewishfilmfestival.org> or phone 206-388-0832

SPOTLIGHT ON: Camp Scholarship Fund

The Camp Scholarship [ & Youth Activities ] Fund was started with donations from the Sisterhood, along with proceeds from Religious School yard sales. Over the years the fund has grown thanks to ongoing Sisterhood support, along with generous donations from members of the congregation. Along with awarding financial assistance for our children who attend URJ camps, the fund has also provided support for members of our teen youth group to attend NFTY events.

Consider the following:

"The impact of Jewish camp is immediate—campers return home connected to a community and friends that will last them a lifetime. And it doesn't stop there. Children with pivotal Jewish camp experiences are more likely to become adults who value their Jewish heritage, support Jewish causes, and take on leadership roles in their communities." (<http://www.jewishcamp.org/why-camp>)

In short, it has been a joy and a pleasure to help our families! Please consider making the occasional donation to our Camp Scholarship fund...the future is in our hands!

Toda Raba — Miriam Zderic, Joan Wayne and Bonnie Stone

~ In Thanks ~

I want to thank all the people who celebrated with me when Rabbi Samuels officiated at the dedication of my home. It was a very special occasion and it meant so much to me. Truly, it was a blessing, and I am so grateful to everyone for their support.

~ Nancy Lloyd
