

FOOD GUIDELINES POLICY

Food service must be kosher style. Under no circumstances shall pork, shellfish or meat be brought to the Congregation Beth Israel Campus (inside or outside the facility).

- Food prepared onsite or brought into Congregation Beth Israel's building must adhere to Congregation Beth Israel dietary policies.
- Vegetarian, dairy or fish may be served. Note: only fish that has fins or scales may be served - no shellfish or any sea animals that do not have scales and fins (e.g. shrimp, crab, mussels, clams, catfish, shark...).
- No meat or meat products are served at any time. (Note: fowl is considered a kind of meat).
- No pork, ham or products made with lard may be served or used in conjunction with foods prepared for consumption for the event (e.g. bacon, sausage, box mixes that contain lard, etc.).
- All items can be commercially catered, or home baked as long as they are consistent with Congregation Beth Israel's Food Guidelines.
